

Do you hear the same sound when you play back the recording that you heard before recording?

The basic problem is that the jittered signal from the A/D tracks at the D/A. There will be no audible effect from the jitter due to a common clock.

During playback when the clock is not the exact same clock the recording was made with, jitter in the recording will become audible.